

SAT Test Dates 2017-2018

Below are the anticipated SAT test dates for 2017-18, as confirmed by the College Board. The registration deadlines and online score release dates are our estimations, which we calculated using the patterns of previous testing years. Once the College Board officially releases details for the 2017-18 testing year, we will update the below dates as needed.

This year marks the first time there will be an August test date and no January test date. This August test date will only be offered within the U.S. Starting in 2018, the March test date will be available outside the U.S., and the international November and June test dates will offer SAT Subject Tests only.
